

Arts Building Privacy Policy

The Arts Building values your privacy and will protect any information that we collect from you to the best of our ability.

We maintain a mailing list for the sole purpose of informing our subscribers of classes, arts events, and news related to the Arts Building Society. The names and email addresses we collect are added to our subscriber list in Mailchimp. Your email may also be used by Arts Building instructors if special notes need to be sent to class participants.

We collect email addresses in three ways.

1. On the Website

Each subscriber who opts-in to our mailing list on our website will receive a confirmation email. You must confirm that you wish to receive our newsletter once you receive that email or you will not be added to the subscriber list.

2. At an Event

We also collect email addresses for our newsletter at events and classes.

By signing a form with your name and email address, you give us permission to add your email to our list. With this method you will not receive a confirmation email.

3. During a Conversation

Occasionally in a casual conversation with an instructor or a member of the Arts Building board, someone's email address may be added to the list after giving verbal permission during the conversation.

The Arts Building Society will not sell, distribute or give away your contact information to any third party with the exception of class instructors as needed.
